

Illuminating Ministry: A Journal

Illuminating Ministry provides an opportunity for church leaders and those in ministerial formation to engage in community and prayer. By focusing on seven distinct charisms or values of Benedictine spirituality and basing its prayer movement on lectio divina, this journal inspires theological reflection on ones own life and ministry. Illuminating Ministry, which promotes spiritual companionship in groups, becomes an exceptional tool for exploring and renewing ones call to ministry through the following features: Seven chapters written by pastoral ministers and the director of ministerial formation at Saint Johns School of Theology Seminary Stories from the authors that illuminate the experience of their ministries Beautiful illuminations from The Saint Johns Bible presented in full color with corresponding Scripture verses, Authors reflections on the charisms as well as the Scripture text related to the images Spaces to record responses to reflection questions and pages to write personal thoughts, feelings, and prayers inspired by the lectio divina process
